JACKIE ESTRADA says Hi to all the wonderful folks I've met through the San Diego Comic Convention!

Overstreet's 20th 'Comic Book Price Guide' ships

'Pristine mint' designation is dropped; emphasis is placed on Silver Age

Contemporary Christian singer Amy Grant is suing Marvel Comics; the Associated Press quotes her lawyer as saying that "the spitting image" of his client appears on the cover of Dr. Strange, Sorcerer Supreme #15 (March 1990). Grant said the likeness was taken from her 1986 album, Amy Grant — The Collection. The lawsuit charges that characters and story lines in the comic book deal with occult subject matter and adds that that runs directly contrary to the message of Christian music. Grant's lawyer said he wants to halt distribution of the comic book (the issue already is off sale and two subsequent issues have been published) and that he may seek monetary compensation. Shown above are the 33 rpm album cover (left) and the comic-book cover; to the right is the cover of the CD album.

Eisner Awards ballot has error, replacement ballots will be mailed

"Due to an error in the original mailing," said Eisner Awards Administrator Dave Olbrich, "we are asking all Eisner Awards nominators to dispose of the ballot they have already received. Please throw it away."

"A new ballot will be sent out by April 24 with a new deadline."

All nominating ballots that have already been returned will be discarded.

"I'd like to apologize to all the nominators for this inconvenience, but it was felt that this was necessary to maintain a dignified and unchallengeable nomination selection process," Olbrich said.

He said that the error involved a list of publications which had accompanied the ballot. "It had come to our attention that some thought the list could have prejudiced the nominators," Olbrich said. "I realize now it could have been read as an eligibility list, and, because of that, the voting could unfairly omit many comics and creators entitled to inclusion and, thus, consideration by the nominators."

"The original list was an attempt to fill a need. Nominators for many years have been asking for a list of this kind. To satisfy this need, we employed a list but warned of its incompleteness."

The 1990 Official Overstreet Comic Book Price Guide will be the 20th edition of what has become the standard price guide of the comics field. How does Robert M. Overstreet feel about the project, now that his guide has been in use for two decades?

"It has grown beyond belief from when it started. It was a fan project at the beginning; it has grown into a full-fledged business."

Asked for his reaction to the change over the years, he replied, "I'm excited about it. The comic-book market has become a legitimate hobby, along with coins, stamps, and other collectible fields."

An increasing number of reporters and others investigating the comics industry consult Overstreet. "I guess you become an authority," Overstreet said, "whether you plan to become one or not. The response we've had has been very good. The guide is basically a reference work as well as a price guide, and I think most collectors understand that it is a total reference work and that the prices are not chiseled in stone. They're there as a guide only."

The 20th edition shipped the week of April 15, and Overstreet spoke of having little time — in connection with his upcoming store appearance in Nashville. "I hope this signing at the store doesn't start something, because normally I wouldn't have time to do this sort of thing. I hope I haven't opened a can of worms; I bet I have. But we're doing it for the fun of it. It will be interesting."

Asked to discuss the differences between the new Comic Book Price Guide and previous editions, he answered, "We've added almost 100 pages. It's more than 800 pages long now and just keeps growing."

"We're running eight more pages in color and we're running two feature articles where normally we run one: both about the Silver Age."

Featured on the cover of Overstreet's 1990 Guide is The Justice League of America, and the 20th edition offers for the first time a detailed chronology of the Silver Age. "It's never been done before and it points out and identifies the major comic books and what led up to them throughout the early years of the Silver Age." The chronology was compiled by Gary Carter. "He starts with 1951 and deals with what led up to Showcase #4."

Showcase #4 (September-October 1956) featured the introduction of the Silver Age Flash, a turning point which led to the revival of super-heroes in comic books. "What's interesting," Overstreet said, "is that the last E.C. came out in 1956. It was a time when a lot of things were ending — a lot of things in comics were failing at that point."

Overstreet said the entire section on grading has been rewritten. "It's more detailed. The grading section was 20 years old and it was about time for a revamping and an updating."

What changes were involved?

"For example, we've dropped the 'pristine mint' term. The 'pristine mint' definition is now the 'mint' definition. 'Mint' is now the top grade — as it used to be years ago." 'Near mint' will be the top grade used in the pricing portion of the Guide, as it was last year.

"True 'mint' is extremely rare in Golden Age and even in early Silver Age," Overstreet said. "Generally speaking, the best grade you usually see is 'near mint.' 'Mint' is a state of perfection which is seldom met. The comic book has to be perfect in every way to be graded 'mint' — which is why most books get a 'near mint.' Slight fading or slight browning or some infinitesimal mark or chip will take a comic book out of the 'mint' category."

He added, "Perfect comic books have been bringing multiples of 'near mint' guide list — and have been for years."

What does Overstreet see for the comic-book market over the next 20 years?

"I think the market will continue to grow. It's one of the most interesting collectible fields out there, I think. Not only do you have rare, collectible items to look at — you have them to read, as well."

Although Overstreet maintains files via computer, he has not yet transformed his Guide for computer use by others. "A lot of people have contacted us over the past several years wanting the rights to license our data base, which in every case was denied. Should we feel there is a market for such a product, we would do it ourselves through Random House."

"We could probably put the Guide out on a laser disk, if we ever get into that. Random House doesn't feel it's time for it yet — but it's coming."

What is the state of the back-issue market? "The Silver Age market is extremely volatile right now, and you could probably say that our initial sales on this book are up 10% over the Guide with the Batman cover of last year, which was up more than 30% from the year before. The market is really growing fast."

Publishers Weekly placed Overstreet's Guide at 14th in the nation for sales of an annual. "We're among the top 20 annuals in all categories, and we're the third best-selling price guide. Baseball cards and coins are ahead of me, but we're moving up very fast."

He estimates he works eight months of each year on the comic-book price guide. "It's a tremendous amount of computer time, and of course you have to add time spent going to conventions and talking with retailers. I work six solid months from September to February, seven days a week, day and night."

He laughed. "I'm getting too old for this stuff. The job gets bigger every year. We have to go through our listings and change manually every price and every bit of data. That way, every price is fine-tuned to the exact issue listed, and the guide's quality is the best it can be."

Few comic-book collectors know that Overstreet is also an authority — and has published a guide — in another collecting field: arrowheads.

Go, Blue! Go, Gold! Go get Riverdale High! Archie Comics Publications' latest entry focuses more closely on the relationships between Archie and his gang and the faculty at Riverdale High.

Each issue will feature two stories and rotating features, all revolving around the faculty and their areas of expertise. These features will include: Grundy's Wacky Word Crunchers, a single page with odd words and goofy ways to remember and understand them; Clayton's Corner, a full page of sports tips; and Flutenoot's Astonishing Science, unusual scientific facts presented in a weird and humorous way.

This issue dedicated to JAMES MADISON HIGH Brooklyn, N.Y., class of 1966.

"My first arrowhead book came out 11 months ago," he said. "I published and distributed that myself. It's practically sold out; we're timing it so that the new one will come out when we sell the last copy of the first one."

There will be massive changes in the new arrowhead edition, too. "We're going to be running 18 pages in color; there's a lot of very colorful material that was used for points and the colorful points are treasured by collectors. The 18-page portion will be good as an identification guide by itself, making what is in effect a small, pull-out book of good examples of basic types in color."

He said he'll travel the entire month of June to compile material for the arrowhead book.

"That will leave July and August for comic books."

'Planet of the Apes' #1 sold out at the publisher

After its first weekend on sale, Adventure Comics' Planet of the Apes #1 generated enough re-orders to sell out its entire 44,000 copy print run.

"We are asking distributors to begin to gather orders for second printings so that we can get copies into the hands of retailers and fans just as soon as possible," said Publisher Dave Olbrich.

"This response is especially gratifying because it comes directly from the demand of readers and collectors trying to purchase the comic."

In addition to these features, be sure to look for The Blue and Gold — Riverdale High's own school newspaper chronicling the news and events of importance. The Blue and Gold will include funny items about schools which the readers will be encouraged to submit. Riverdale High will also feature a series of contests which will run for an average of four issues and include information and clues in the issues to help solve the problem.

Riverdale High #1 will feature the team of John Wilcox, Stan Goldberg, and Mike Esposito. It will ship on May 15 and continue bi-monthly.

Be sure to look for Riverdale High in your local comic-book store.

(Riverdale High continues on Page 6)

Overstreet does signing

Robert M. Overstreet, compiler of the annual The Official Overstreet Comic Book Price Guide will appear at Collector's World's new Nashville, Tenn., location on May 5. The store is at 5751 Nolensville Rd. (at the corner of Old Hickory Blvd. in the Kroger Shopping Center), phone (615) 333-9458. Overstreet will autograph copies of the new edition of his price guide from 3 to 8 p.m., and the store will hold a three-day sale May 4 through 6.

Publicity for the event suggests customers should "Come meet the man who made this industry what it is today."

Overstreet said it probably would be his first comic-book shop appearance. "They approached me. It wouldn't be that much trouble to do it, since it will be a local appearance, and he sold me on coming. He's a good salesman."

He said he would not be there to evaluate material that was brought in. "I'm looking to just sign books. They'll be selling the Guide there and they're going to keep it under control."

On Page 28 of the April 10 issue of Soap Opera Weekly is an interview with Elaine Lee, talking about her former role as Mildred Trumble on The Doctors and about her comic-book series Steeltown Rockers. The article is accompanied by pictures of Lee and the first issue of Steeltown Rockers.

Marvel suggests retailers set up an in-store Steeltown Rockers display to catch attention: Pick up a copy of the April 10 Soap Opera Weekly, paste it onto a piece of colorful poster board, and place it with the comic books on the counter.

Martin Nodell, Sheldon Moldoff are Kansas City Comic Con guests

The Kansas City Comic Book Club is putting the finishing touches on its spring show, the Kansas City Comic Con, formerly the Mo-Kan Comics Festival.

"We call this one 'Rings 'n' Wings,'" said Mike Worley, convention co-chairman. The name comes from the two guests of honor for the show, Martin Nodell and Sheldon Moldoff. Nodell created the Golden Age Green Lantern and Moldoff was an artist noted for his work on Hawkman.

"As has been our trademark, we continue to honor and celebrate significant contributions to the industry, such as the 50th birthdays of these important characters," Worley said.

Also at the show will be Elliot S. Maggin, editor of DC Comics' TSR line; Fabian Nicieza, Marvel Comics writer; and Paul Ryan, current artist on the Avengers titles for Marvel. Also present will be area professionals, including Steve Lightle, currently slated to draw a Spider-Man-Wolverine graphic novel; Scimidar artists Rob Davis and Ande Parks; Rick Stasi, DC artist; and Clark Hawbaker, Continuity artist.

"If people are looking for golden age rarities, they will probably find it at our show, and at a reasonable price," said Mike Wileman, convention co-chairman. Worley went on to add, "We have had major collections sold off at our show, we have had rare original art finds, and we have had rare guests that the major cons are just now getting. We are very proud of our record of accomplishments."

For more information about the show, write Jerry Schattenburg, 13640 White St. #1, Grandview, Mo. 64030.

Schultz to sign

Award-winning artist-writer Mark Schultz will be signing copies of his comics and graphic novels on Saturday, April 28, at Capital City Comics, 1910 Monroe St., Madison, Wis. Schultz has won several industry awards for his work, Xenozoic Tales, published by Kitchen Sink Press. Schultz will be making this in-store appearance from noon to 2 p.m.

OK, we're old.
Really old.
As our bones creak and our voices quaver, we admit it.
Our desire to tell you, youngsters, what it was like in The Old Days comes from the same desires that Herodotus doubtless felt when he told the Greeks of the places he had seen as well as of events before he was born. You don't appreciate the present without knowing what happened in the past.
When we began to collect comics, it was not only a thankless avocation — it was a hobby which was widely mocked. "Oh, yes," you reply. "One of my friends made fun of me last week for collecting comics."
No. You don't get the point.
Nobody (aside from a core of about 300 people) collected comics in the early '60s.
Comics were spat upon.
It was a proud and lonely and despised thing to be a comics collector.
At the same time, those 300 people knew what they wanted but what they knew they'd never get: all those great old comics from earlier years in durable collected form — fit to reread endlessly and sit on a bookshelf.
We don't think you can really appreciate what we have today, if you didn't suffer along with us all those years ago. But look at what we have:
Fantagraphics is bringing us reprints of such gems as Prince Valiant and Little Nemo in Slumberland and E.C. Segar's Popeye.
Kitchen Sink has ongoing projects of reprinting Li'l Abner, Flash Gordon, and Steve Canyon.
Russ Cochran has reprinted most of EC's output in hardcovers and Another Rainbow is doing the same for Carl Barks' Donald Duck. NBM has given us the complete Terry and the Pirates by Milton Caniff and is producing the complete Wash Tubbs and Captain Easy by Roy Crane.
We've even got translated versions, via such fine companies as Catalan and First and Eclipse and Viz and Epic — of comic-book work from around the world.
And the comic-book companies are working to make their classic old stories available, too! The first four issues of Superman have already been reprinted. This year will see the first two years' worth of Batman stories from Detective stories in a single hardcover book and the first 10 issues of Captain America in a two-volume, slipcased hardcover.
Guys, this is great.
And you don't even have to have a gray beard to appreciate it. Though it helps.

Harlan Ellison
Pursuant to our telecon of earlier today, herewith impeccable and irrefutable evidence, not to mention crushingly conclusive backup, as well as devastatingly documented disclaimers, for my request for a groveling retraction by Robert S. "Buck" Coulson of erroneous statements made in his "Year of Jubilo" column in the 23 February 90 issue of Comics Buyer's Guide.
Mr. Coulson, in reviewing my column "Harlan Ellison's Watching" as published in the March 1990 issue of The Magazine of Fantasy and Science Fiction, wherein I make passing reference to an old volume of sf essays titled Of Worlds Beyond, a book both edited and published by Lloyd Arthur Eshbach for his now-defunct imprint, Fantasy Press, had this to say:
He does make one minor error: Lloyd Eshbach edited "the very first book of symposium essays about modern SF" but it was published by Advent Publishers. Advent was formed by a group of Chicago science-fiction fans: Earl Kemp, Ed Wood, Robert E. Briney, George Price, and Jim O'Meara. It published books about science fiction long before any university presses became interested in the field.
Mr. Coulson's past cranky behavior where I'm concerned — which behavior you have been kind enough to try to palliate by speaking to Mr. Coulson on my behalf — manifests itself yet again. He's so determined to make me out whenever he can dredge up the stringiest indictments as a) meanspirited, b) untalented, c) muddleheaded, d) psychopathic, or e) all of the preceding at the same time, that he allows his own faulty memory, or possibly lack of knowledge, to convict him of the misdemeanor of which he accuses me.

Even his feeling compelled to cobble up this alleged "minor error" from a 5000 word essay, even if he were correct in his assertion, is evidence of an unhealthy obsession, a slant of intent, a state of mind, that does not bode well for his mental equilibrium as he flutters near his 65th birthday. As a man of only 10 years his junior, I know how feeble grows our grasp on reality as we crawl toward senility; and whatever we can do for ourselves to rid ourselves of these Debilitating Tempters & Evil Humours is all to the good.
But, in fact, Mr. Coulson is (as usual when he comes after me) dead wrong.
As you can see from the axiomatic evidence enclosed, I was no less than absolutely correct in my column, and Mr. Coulson is absolutely wrong in his nit-picking. Eshbach edited and published Of Worlds Beyond in a small-run Fantasy Press edition in 1947. The Advent edition was a reprint pickup in 1964, 17 years later. I could have offered this evidence in any number of ways (up to, and including, Xerox copies of the indicia pages from both editions, which I own) but chose to reproduce the simplest, most direct proof — actual pages from the most widely quoted authority on science fiction bibliographies, Lloyd W. Currey.
And if you wonder why I'd waste my time correcting Coulson yet again, apart from the sheer demonic pleasure of wiping his nose in a failed attempt to uphorne me, know this: I do make errors, just like everyone else; but I work with diligence at buttressing what I say in my column with facts and research. In fiction, one can make a mistake and be excused. It happens. But in non-fiction, particularly in the essay from where opinion is all, what one most depends on is the trust of the reader that the author knows what the hell he's talking about. Even "minor errors," when they occur, undermine that necessary trust. I'll take the rap, and have done so in print more than once, tugging my forelock, apologizing for my error, promising to do better, when I'm shown the mistake of my ways.

Now let's see if Mr. Coulson, and CBG, can act in a similarly correct fashion. If he refuses to include a proper recantation in size, position and immediacy in his column, Maggie, I ask that you do so on behalf of CBG, or simply run this letter with the Currey proofs reproduced. Not that anyone but I will give a damn about such a piddling matter.

Before writing the item Harlan objects to, I checked with the list of Fantasy Press books that Eshbach included in Over My Shoulder and found no listing for the book. However, I just checked again, and the listing is there. Since it seems unlikely that Harlan could have sneaked in and added to the list when I wasn't looking, I admit that he's right and Fantasy Press did publish Of Worlds Beyond.
[First, it should be noted that Harlan sent us photostats of the catalogue entries by Currey; we chose to have them typeset because we could not get good enough reproduction from FAXed photocopies.
Second, we think Buck made a mistake; we do not think there was any malice involved. Evidence of this? We ran what he said because we thought he was right — we have the Advent edition of Of Worlds Beyond and we didn't know it was a reprint. We thought Harlan had simply made a small error.
A year or so ago, Don was complaining bitterly to Frank Miller (an innocent bystander who just happened to be on the other end of the phone when Don was waxing wroth — generally Roth waxes Don,

I was scanning CBG #855 and my radar honed in on a mention of Fantagor Press in the "Books Guide" section. I certainly appreciate the inclusion and approval of Jeremy Brood. I'd like to point out an error in your assumption — that is about "old blue-nosed" Corben is covering up naughty bits in his comic stories again. Yes, I know I've done this many times and I should expect errors. The truth is, Jeremy Brood was not changed to downplay the nudity. Any lightening or darkening is caused by chance variance in the printing.

[Thanks for the clarification. Don did not check the new edition of Jeremy Brood with our earlier edition, but he does remember that more anatomical detail was visible in the earlier printing, for whatever reason.]

For those who did not see the review, Don did not accuse Richard of being blue-nosed; that's a humorous comment by Richard, who has toned down or eliminated nudity in many of his recent publications and reprints.]

I had a few other comments to add to your own about Blackadder. Besides what you've already mentioned, Rowan Atkinson also appeared in The Grand Knockout Tournament. This was a special version of a British show called It's a Knockout, done for charity. It featured four teams of celebrities (including Christopher Reeve, Tom Jones, Walter Peyton, Meat Loaf, John Cleese, Jenny Agutter, and Kevin Kline). Each team was headed by a member of the Royal Family: Prince Edward

(who came up with the idea), Princess Anne, Prince Andrew, and the Duchess of York ("Fergie"). The teams competed in various games with a medieval flavor to them. (None of the Royals actually played in the games.) Money raised by the event went to various charities. Atkinson appeared as "Lord Knock," in whose name the games were held. He asked that the players in the games strive for "grandeur, glory, and overwhelming silliness." This program has aired a few times on the USA network and is fun to watch.

One PBS station that I know has aired Blackadder is WTTW in Chicago. From what I've been told, the versions aired include segments not shown in Canada. However, WTTW does not show "The Archbishop" from The Black Adder. I suspect things like the question "Who would pay for the sexual favors of nuns?" and its answer "Other nuns" probably had something to do with that. WTTW tried running the series during pledge season and got absolutely no response from it, which indicates it wasn't well received in the Windy City. Too bad.

On an entirely different subject, I recently purchased some old Looney Tunes and Merrill Melodies comics and became reacquainted with, among others, "Mary Jane and Sniffles." I found that, in the earlier stories, Mary Jane shrinks to Sniffles' size with the use of a magic sand. She would sprinkle the sand on herself, sometimes saying:

"Magic sand, magic sand,
Make me small at my command!"

I, and probably most people who remember this feature, only recall Mary Jane shrinking by shutting her eyes, crossing her fingers and saying:

"Now I shut my eyes real tight,
Then I wish with all my might,
Magic words of poof, poof, piffles,
Make me just as small as Sniffles!"

I'd like to know when and why did the change in shrinking method come about? For that matter, does anyone know how Mary Jane learned to shrink in the first place? And did any of the stories ever show how she returned to normal size?

Reading these stories after so long brought back fond memories of my earliest comics reading. I wouldn't mind knowing some background on "Mary Jane and Sniffles" (creators, writers, artists, etc.). I think it says a lot for the stories that Sniffles in the comics outlived Sniffles in the cartoons by about a decade, I believe. It probably helped that, when you read Sniffles' words, you didn't have to actually hear his voice.

[It's just a guess, but we'd suspect that the sand gimmick was dropped because parents got upset when kids threw sand in their hair trying to shrink to mouse size.]

We seem to recall discussing this some years ago and being told there had been at least one other verse used in Mary Jane's shrinking — but we don't recall details.

We think the last artist to work on the strip was Al Hubbard, who did the hard-to-find Dell Four-Color Mary Jane & Sniffles issues: #402 and #474.]

I hope you'll consider printing the following letter to Mariano Nicieza, President of MN Design Productions, publisher of Nova Girls. With all the mudslinging that's been going on in "Oh, So?" recently, I thought it might be nice to hear a retailer commend the work of a small-press publisher and one printing a book (quoting Don) "with attractive young women in tight costumes" at that. Hey, Mariano!

I just received our April order form from Diamond. Congratulations on your solicitation for Nova Girls #2: "Kissing Canvas!" I'm glad to see it get the color treatment it deserves.

Your clever idea of blending photos of beautiful models with hand-drawn art has produced the most "promo-friendly" comic book I've ever seen. Janet and I have concocted a plan to get you to visit us, Mariano. We would like to plan a Nova Girls Day at C.A.V.E! with appearances by you, Scott, Maurice, Steve, Mark, and/or as many of the "Girls" as I can get hold of. Let us know what you think.

While "guest appearances" have been done before (as cleverly as Sergio Aragones in Jon Sable #33, and as narcissistically as John Byrne in The Fantastic Four), none could be as genuine or effective as those you can do. I can't wait to see Al "Grampa Munster" Lewis in issue #4.

Thank you for giving my dear friend Maurice Gaston the opportunity to work with you. From what I've seen of his submissions, his pencils will make an impressive addition to your book. I'm sure you'll agree that he's one of the most talented, hard-working artists to come along in years, and I'm glad to see his meteoric comics career begin at MN Design Productions.

Good luck, Mariano. Here's hoping the retail community supports Nova Girls to the extent that your hard work so richly deserves.

This is a copy of a letter that I have sent to the editor of the "new and improved" Legion of Super-Heroes title. I think that it is self-explanatory:

Michael,
I'm afraid that I must agree with what Monte Wilson said in his letter printed in LSH #6, although I think that I'm not as disappointed as he is. This new version of the titles that I have followed for years is a pale imitation of those stories that I loved so much. It's confusing and lacking of some of the quality found in the old titles. And with the characters from the old titles that were brought back changed so much I'm wondering why they were even brought back. This title might have been less disappointing if all-new characters had been used.

I'm finding that I have to read each issue at least twice before I completely (?) understand it. I don't find this a good thing. If I have to read something more than once before I understand it, part of the enjoyment that I normally feel disappears. And the time spent rereading the book could be used to read or do something else.

After Keith first returned to the second LSH title, I expressed a dislike for his "new" style of art. It isn't half as good as what he turned out when he started pencilling for the first title. I have been told that sometimes it's the inker that alters, for the better or for the worse, a penciller's work, but I don't think that's the case this time. His "new" style has been too consistent over the last few years. I would prefer that he used the style he once used.

One thing that I am really upset about is that it looks like none of my favorite characters are going to be brought back, such as Sensor Girl, The White Witch, Tellus, and the last incarnation of The Fatal Five (The Emerald Empress was too interesting to kill). With such changes and with so many of the old characters being left out, I think that you run the risk of losing many old readers.

And don't you think that five years is too long a period for us to catch up with? That's an awful lot of history! On the other hand, I find it hard to believe that things could have fallen to their present level in just five years. Sure, the 30th century relied heavily on its technology, but the "Magic Wars" didn't last long enough to cause such a downfall in the quality of living.

If I can't have the old team back, I will settle for the new. If possible, I would like to have both. As I said, I'm not that disappointed with the new titles; I just prefer the older ones. I could even find the new title almost as interesting as the old, if it were a bit easier to understand.

Maybe you could consider making the new title an alternate-universe title much like Superboy is and Gotham by Gaslight was and bring back the old title, having it start right off after the "Magic Wars."

Then we could have the pleasure of two LSH titles.

To answer your query in "Oh, So?" from the April 27 CBG, the version of New Teen Titans #2 to which Jolyon Silver-Smith refers is, indeed, the 1980 version. This issue features not only The Terminator's introduction, but the origin and death of The Ravager, his eldest son. Tales of the Teen Titans #44, mentioned in your Price Guide as the first appearance of The Terminator, is actually his origin story (and part of the "Judas Contract" storyline). I'm positive that the character appeared at least one other time between these two issues of the newsprint series, but I'm not quite sure when (most of the collection's still back home, you see).

Now that I've answered a question of yours, I'm hoping that you (or one of my fellow readers) can answer some of mine. Are there plans afoot to release videos of such classic (but forgotten, at least by today's public) super-hero shows as the Super Friends cartoons, the live-action Shazam! show, or even those live-action

Challenge of the Super-Heroes specials I remember (with Black Canary in a mask, Batman and Robin pumping gas into the Batmobile, and Sinestro baffling Green Lantern as a gypsy)? Why aren't these — or other childhood favorites of mine, like Marine Boy and (especially) Hong Kong Phooey — in syndication, at the very least? It's not just memories of youth clouding my mind; I recall these being quality shows featuring quality fun (even if they didn't have the best acting and animation around).

To jog some people's memories out there, Shazam! featured the original Captain Marvel (the Fawcett character revived by DC in comic-book form concurrently with the show). Billy Batson, given his powers by The Elders (thus eliminating the middleman, old Shazam himself), roamed the country with his mentor (called Mentor, though presented as Uncle Dudley/Marvel in the comics) in a van bearing Cap's insignia, though rarely did anyone discover Billy's secret as a result. The stories were action-adventure morality plays, and ended with either Cap or Billy speaking to the audience about good and bad. There were two (LETTERS, Page 10)

The Golden Age blossoms in May

Neil Gaiman-Mark Buckingham Miracleman NOW ON SALE!

"It was the best of times. And what was miraculous was this: everybody knew it."

"The old world had been too incompetent and incomplete for words. The new world was the world as we'd always dreamed it could be—a golden dawn rising on an age of miracles undreamed of, except, perhaps, in the most escapist of fantasies."

"It was something entirely new in human history. It was a time of innocence, of magic, of truth... a time of reconciliation, when the mundane and the miraculous partook of each other, to the advantage of both."

"God was in his heaven..."

"...All was right with the world."

Thus, with "A Hope and Prayer," Miracleman #17 takes the next step in the Miracleman saga—Book 4: The Golden Age by writer Neil Gaiman and artist Mark Buckingham.

The narrative involves a group of four pilgrims, some spiritual, some practical, "going up"—that is, climbing Olympus, Miracleman's monumental citadel in the heart of London. The travellers ascend Olympus' central staircase, journeying "through hall after hall filled with oddments and delights of every shape and kind," revealing their purposes—the "prayers" they hope their new god will answer—to each other. "A Hope and Prayer" tracks their unpredictable progress, and documents Miracleman's enigmatic responses.

Committed to an 18-issue run (with covers for Book 4's six issues by Dave McKean), Gaiman and Buckingham will chart the utopian reign of Miracleman and Miraclewoman through a series of vignettes, experimenting with both narrative and visual techniques. Future issues include glimpses of Miraclewoman's relations with the public and her efforts to help all Earthlings "evolve"; the rise of the Bateses, a loosely-organized cult worshipping everyone's favorite mad god; and the ultimate fate of the soul of one Dr. Emil Gargunza...

The 32-page, full-color comic book retails for $2.00 and ships bi-monthly beginning with the mid-May release of issue 17.

Gin & Comix promises many happy hours

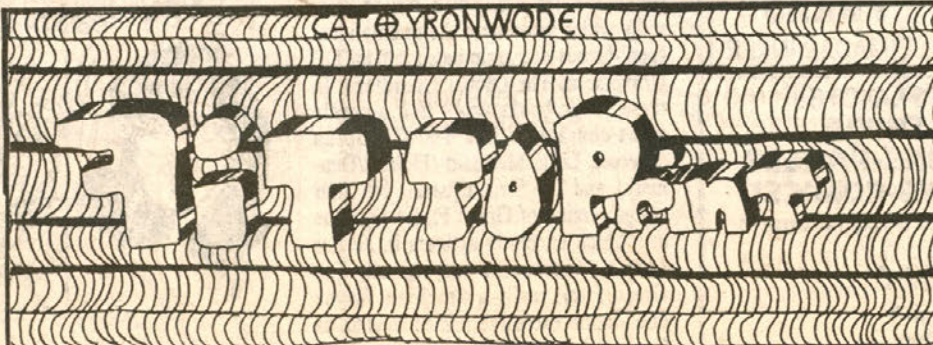

School of Visual Arts' first project since RAW now being served

New York City's School of Visual Arts has long epitomized the vanguard of experimental comics, helping launch Art Spiegelman and François Mouly's influential and lavishly praised RAW magazine. Now, SVA returns with the stunning new graphic anthology Gin & Comix, distributed to the comics industry by Eclipse Books.

Two years in the making, the work includes an international cast of creators, including political cartoonists, traditional comics artists, painters, and fine art illustrators. Presented in an oversized 14"x10 1/2" format reminiscent of RAW, the 64-page black-and-white magazine includes a special 16-page two-color gatefold insert.

Editors José Ortega and Phillipe Lardy have attracted a breadth of artists for the issue: widely heralded Washington Post cartoonist Peter Hoey offers "Let's Talk About Television" and, with Peter Gilstrap, "Do You Still Want To Be Bob?"; SVA instructors Frances Jetter and David Sandlin demonstrate their skills with, respectively "The Mutant" and "Satan Sheets"; and acclaimed writer-artist Jerry Morjarty—featured in the RAW one-shot Jack Survives—offers four two-page "Visual Crimes" from "Meter Man" to "Crazy Crowd." Also included are Belgian artist Jan Smet, French creators Philippe Petit-Roulet, Alain Ceyssac, and Mokeit, and Americans Alexander Ross and Mike Dermansky. It was designed by Sheri G. Lee.

Gin & Comix is printed on a high quality paper donated by Champion Paper, with a thick-stock color cover, and retails for $10.00.

THIS IS FIT TO PRINT NUMBER

310: Ever since Dino came back from that international comics publishers' convention in France, he's been getting regular packages from Europe containing graphic albums available for translation into English. The variety of material is amazing; without a "Big Two" industry monopoly like we have in the States, small countries like Spain, France, and Italy support a broad spectrum of publishers who in turn produce an immense quantity of fiction and non-fiction comics.

With the exception of work by a few great shining lights like Moebius, it seems the U.S. market, dominated as it is by adolescent boys' comics, has not been open to importing the many Eurocomics not aimed at "boys" (older boys, in the case of smutty sex comics, but boys, nonetheless). This means that the bulk of European non-genre fiction has been overlooked by those whose regular business has been the importation of foreign language volumes and the publication of American editions.

For instance, until Bill Stout sent me samples and Dean looked them up in France, I had never heard of or seen Carlos Gimenez's autobiographical comics about his childhood under the fascist dictatorship of Franco's Spain. (Steve Leialoha once showed me Gimenez's adaptation of a Jack London story about a heroic leper, but that was drawn in a typical Spanish adventure comics style and didn't touch me the way the more heartfelt—and darkly chiaroscuro—autobiography did).

Likewise, until Dean's trip turned them up, I had not seen or heard of the international Human Rights anthology (containing art by Will Eisner, Anni Goetzinger, Milo Manara, and others) or the eerie North South collection (with work by Alberto Breccia, Howard Chaykin, Enrique Breccia, and the incredible Andreas Martens).

Both were released by a Basque publisher (in Spain) who specializes in political comics, including such offbeat material as a fully painted graphic history of the 1930s Spanish Civil war from a Basque nationalist perspective.

North South, my favourite of the Basque/Spanish volumes, is a graphic album at once much quieter than anything I've lately seen in the U.S. and much more outspoken. The theme is colonization of tropical nations by temperate nations—of Africa and South America by Europe, for instance—although there is more to it than that.

We can posture smugly all we want to about America's "new comics" and "post-modern comics" like Watchmen and The Dark Knight, but those and others of their ilk are just mid-century genre fiction arrayed in new taffeta dresses when compared to the really astounding, truly new approaches to comics art displayed in North South.

An example of what I mean by a "truly new" approach: one of the stories in North South takes the form of eight lushly rendered and formally titled full-colour paintings by Luis Garcia Mozos. Each seems to be nothing more than a beautiful, slightly conventional illustration of the kind one regularly sees in galleries or on magazine covers. The layout and order of their presentation—one per page with a typeset caption beneath each, as if in a fancy art book—appears utterly random at first. My initial thought was, "This guy must be so famous they let him into the anthology even though he doesn't do comics art at all"—but then, WHAM! it all fell into place and those eight panels (for that is what they really were) told a damning and devastating tale of international arms dealers. How did Mozos do that? Well, you'd just have to view it for yourself; the elusive subtlety of the story is as amazing as the subject matter.

When will you be able to see these unusual comics? I don't know, but if there is any way to make a U.S. edition of North South profitable, Dean will try for it; more details as they arise.

Friendly Dictators authors win top awards

Dennis Bernstein and Laura Sydel honored for radio documentaries

Both Dennis Bernstein and Laura Sydel, co-authors of Eclipse Enterprises' popular Friendly Dictators Trading Cards, have recently earned top honors for investigative and public affairs radio broadcasting.

Undercurrents, a weekly investigative report founded by Bernstein and syndicated on the Pacifica Radio Network, was awarded Long Island University's prestigious George Polk Award for Radio Journalism for its intensive coverage of the United States invasion of Panama. The series included the last interview with Panamanian General Manuel Noriega—one of "America's 36 most embarrassing allies"—before his surrender to American forces.

"The award underscores the importance of alternative media in terms of investigative reports," Bernstein said. "This plays in well with what we've tried to do with the Dictators cards—finding various means to inform people. The cards are a place to start, a foot in the door giving people important details in an accessible way and inspiring people to look deeper than the mainstream news."

Sydel, evening news producer for Fordham University's WFUV radio, earned the National Federation of Community Broadcasters' highest honor—The Golden Reel—for her one-hour Call to Conscience broadcast on the anti-nuclear Plowshares movement. Plowshare activists—including actor Martin Sheen (who narrated Sydel's broadcast), and activist priests Daniel and Philip Berrigan—have broken into U.S. nuclear missile facilities and attempted to disable or destroy elements of America's first-strike network.

"The award meant very much to me," said Sydel, "because I put a lot of work into it, and because the subject matter was very controversial—especially in that some people believe the Plowshare actions are quite extreme, and some even doubt America has planned and developed weaponry toward winning a limited nuclear exchange. But, even though the United States has signed treaties agreeing not to build first-strike weaponry—and notwithstanding that the government often claims these weapons are defensive—there's a wealth of documentation that some of these weapons are not merely defensive, and that the American military is still planning a first strike nuclear war. 'Star Wars,' despite Ronald Reagan's claims, is obviously a component of such a system."

Bernstein and Sydel have tentative plans for at least two more sets of investigative trading cards with Eclipse. Bernstein is currently collaborating with Paul Brancato—author of Eclipse's Iran-Contra Scandal and Bush League trading cards—on Drug Wars, a 36-card set examining the implications of the U.S. government's so-called "War on Drugs."

"The cards will tell the real story behind the war on drugs, the story that's not going to be told," Bernstein said, "of how democracies and peoples' liberation are sacrificed for commerce."

Bernstein and Sydel also hope to produce what editor Catherine Yronwode calls a "cultural heroes" deck, though, Sydel cautions, the idea is still "very much incubating."

actors who played Captain Marvel, and I recall the opening sequence and the "changing scenes" (with the magic thunderbolt striking) as being the most exciting.

On the animated front, Super Friends featured Superman, Batman, Robin, Wonder Woman, and Aquaman fighting crime with the "junior Super Friends" (first Wendy, Marvin, and Wonder Dog, and later Zan, Jayna, and their space-monkey Gleek) in the Hall of Justice. Occasionally, other Justice Leaguers (such as The Flash or Green Arrow) would appear, as would "ethnic heroes" like Black Vulcan and Apache Chief. The show metamorphosed, alternately rerunning and reinventing itself. It was called Challenge of the Superfriends when the group (now with a full contingent of Leaguers and "ethnic heroes") fought The Legion of Doom (Lex Luthor, Gorilla Grodd, and others), and that version often featured short stories with three- or four-character team-ups.

Still later (and I may be missing some incarnations here, as this is off the top of my head), the show was called Galactic Guardians: The Super Powers Show (this was at the time of those little figures, far inferior to the Mego dolls of DC and Marvel heroes present during my childhood). Darkseid figures prominently in the later episodes, which introduced more DC characters, among them Firestorm and Cyborg (at this point, no doubt, to further toy sales).

Super Powers had its own slew of comic-book mini-series, but I remember much more fondly the older Super Friends comics (written largely by E. Nelson Bridwell), which introduced the international super-heroes later assimilated into the DC Universe as The Global Guardians. In these comic books you'll find not only great characters like The Olympian (Greece), Little Mermaid (Finland/Denmark), and The Seraph (Israel), but a far better version of Green Flame than the one which currently appears in Justice League America (she was originally The Green Fury, really a Brazilian Wayne Foundation executive named Beatriz da Costa and was a much more original and respectable character back then — in fact, she was the most-often-recurring guest-star in the comic book). Even without the international heroes, the stories were almost guaranteed fun.

Whew. I really didn't mean to run on this long — but my schoolwork will forgive me if I put in a few last words about my favorite canine (tied with Underdog, of course — sorry, Dynamutt). Hong Kong Phooey was about a dog who worked as a janitor in a police station, in a world where everyone else was human; in fact, he even had a pet cat (so much for "anthropomorphically correct" cartoons).

Now, if you accept that he could maintain a secret identity this way, you'd easily buy the rest of it. When trouble arose, the dog went into the storeroom, jumped into the bottom drawer of his filing cabinet, and emerged from the top drawer as Hong Kong Phooey ("number one super-star," went the song), complete with domino mask and kimono. The folding bed in the storeroom (if I remember correctly) catapulted him down the garbage chute (or maybe out the window) into the garbage dump, whence waited his customized car. (LETTERS, Page 12) that the geeks have moved on to Dark Shadows or Blake's 7 or Red Dwarf or whatever the hot geek show is for this year. Now I am no longer embarrassed to admit I am a fan of the show!

Doctor Who has been so many things over the years, it is difficult to say that it is better or worse now than it was five, 10, 15, or 25 years ago. However, since Nov. 23, 1963, there has been one consistent factor in every season: No matter how many stories there are, 25% of the season is great, 25% is awful, and 50% is average.

Season 26 is no exception. "Battlefield" was mindless fun, "Ghost Light" was indecipherable, "Curse of Fenric" was moody and suspenseful, and "Survival" was a fascinating story featuring by far the best performance by Anthony Ainley as The Master. I don't think he cackled fiendishly more than once or twice in the whole thing!

I have never liked Sylvester McCoy. He seems to play The Doctor the way he thinks he should rather than the way he knows he should. Also he will always suffer from comparison to Patrick Troughton, which is not his fault. However, his chemistry with Sophie Aldred is excellent. Sophie is a good actress who benefits from some of the most in-depth characterization a Doctor Who companion has ever had.

As for comedy in Doctor Who, it has been, and I hope always will be, an integral part of what Doctor Who is about.

I had an ad in this issue's (#856) Comics Trader. I had calls for it on Thursday, March 29. I got my copy on Monday, April 2, and my best friend Fred Mahn got his April 4. He lived five miles away from me! I would pay for next-day air but why should, I when somebody got theirs next day in California with their standard subscription? OK, our local post offices are responsible for whether something arrives at 12 p.m. Monday or 9 a.m. Tuesday, but a five-day difference? Don and Maggie, please do something about your distribution!

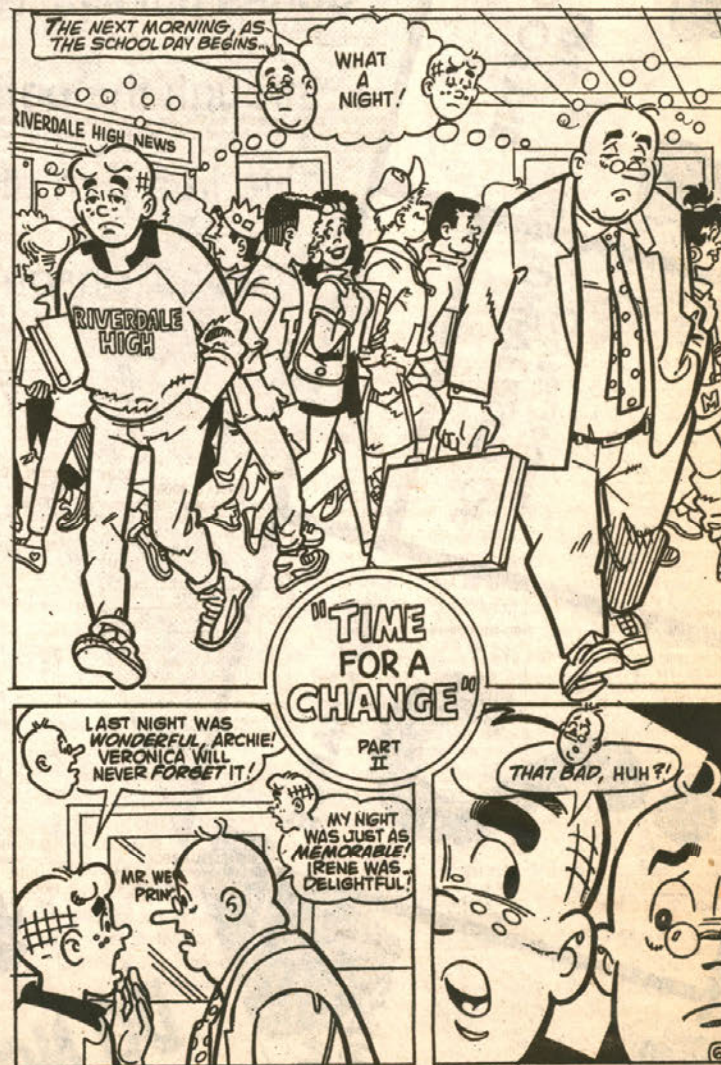

One last thing. You cannot buy Batman cereal with a bank at food stores any more. You can buy the bank separately or the sealed box with bank from collectibles dealers such as John Marshall, who advertises often in CBG. The bank is not as cool as everyone says it is, but it's not bad, either. The cereal is less spicy than Captain Crunch, and in my opinion, incredibly nasty. Yes, there is quite a bit of inherent worth in owning the whole package intact, if you don't mind the smell of bad cereal decaying over the years. By the way, if anyone can find Quisp Cereal still around, could they please contact me?

[We put Comics Buyer's Guide in the mail the same time of the same day every week. Once it goes into the postal system, we have no control over what is done with it.]

If you get consistently late delivery (and this issue was shipped April 25), the only person who can initiate a complaint is you. There are forms at your local Postal Service branch for such a complaint. We pay for second-class service, which is supposed (postal people tell us) to get us delivery second only to first-class mail. If CBG doesn't get that service in your area, you'll do us all a favor by filing that complaint.]

ACID-FREE BOXES & BOARDS

REDUCED WHOLESALE PRICES!

Don't merely store your comics, give them the added protection of archival quality boxes and boards from Bill Cole Enterprises, Inc. Ordinary cardboard is itself acidic and may be hazardous to your collection over time. Our acid-free products go beyond the stringent specifications of the Library of Congress. To do this we use a 3% alkaline buffer throughout, not just in the thin paper lining the surface. Our boxes and boards are truly archival quality with a pH of 8.5 and not the commonly termed "neutral (pH 7)" of "acid free". Our acid-free products may not be for all your comics, but when protecting your investment over the long term is your concern, our products are number one. No mix and match.

BUGS BUNNY: 50 YEARS AND ONLY ONE GREY HARE

This is some book! This book is the standard that these types of books will be measured by in years to come. Here is the history of Bugs, from the pre-Bugs bunnies who appeared in Warner's Cartoons in the late 1930s through the classic Bugs of the 1940's, and onward. The stories of the living legends who directed him—Tex Avery, Bob Clampett, Friz Freleng, and Chuck Jones. To present the true glory of America's long-served old, snotten of Bugs' best cartoons are highlighted, with dozens of frame enlargements, animation drawing, and bits of hilarious dialogue. By Joe Adamson. Oversized hardcover / 192 pages / Henry Holt / (reg. $35.00) NUC PRICE: $32.90

SUBURBAN NIGHTMARES

Colorful tales of the terror of the Suburban

I feel so humiliated, snubbed, singled out, etc. Such is my shame that I have no choice but to throw myself before a fast-moving lawnmower. Then again, maybe not. Maybe I'll suggest an innovation, a new concept, a swell idea. Let's encourage people to come up with clever and amusing openings for their letters, sort of like they do over at First Comics. What do you think? Is this a swell idea or what? Just imagine the dazzling and creative openings that we would see. People would get more and more inventive, trying to impress fellow readers. Of course, many would be unable to come up with worthy openings and would no longer write. Soon we would have an elite, snob-

The sole exception to this rule is Scott McCloud. Anything with his name on it I buy. Of course, this exception has not been severely tested up to this point. I would hope that everybody did this but having witnessed people buying multiple copies of one issue, I get the feeling Jim Lorrig and I are alone in this (unless, of course, some people find multiple read-

[A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, as someone (either Wolverine or Thoreau, take your pick) was wont to say. Sometimes we leave a salutation intact. Our primary reason for omitting them is that they waste space.]

There is an abundance of material that would appeal to females. I've been presented with the argument that women can relate more easily to strong female characters and would prefer books focused on much "role models," but I don't think

So I'm moving my inquiries here. If you're female, please write to CBG and present what attracts you, as a woman, to

I think there's a largely untapped market of potential comic-book buyers out there: women. And, perhaps by some of us sharing our views and histories here in CBG, we can help the publishers and retailers attract more female readers and help the industry grow.

[Maggie grew up reading and saving comic books, thanks to the encouragement of her mother, Betsy Curtis. In the late '40s, huge comics racks were to be found all over in places ranging from department stores to grocery stores. And there was a comic book for almost every kind of reader. Lots of girls — about as many as boys — read comics.

But availability of comics became far less by the late '50s.

Betsy wrote (in the Spring 1985 issue of Comics Collector):

"At a comic-con in New York City some years ago, I interviewed every female I could get hold of on the subject of why they were at the con at all and what their connection was with comics.

"In the majority were mothers of small-boy aficionados, girl-friends and wives of boys and men who read and collected comics, and a few sisters of boys.

"Oh, there was a tiny minority of girls who bought and read comics. However, as far as the younger women (younger than the mothers, that is) were concerned, their explanation of why they had not read was primarily economic: Brothers' allowances were not mortgaged by the requirement that they buy their own clothing, etc. The girls had been expected to buy not only clothes but also make-up, hair-dressing, and other female-peer purchases.

"There was also, in the few cases in which I remembered to ask, a certain type of social pressure: Boys were much freer to go to the stores where comics were sold (often at some distance from home) than girls were."

When we attended the first large comics convention (put on in the early '60s by John Benson in New York City), the females in attendance were: Maggie Thompson, Pat Lupoff, Lee Hoffman, and Flo Steinberg. Flo worked for Marvel; the rest of us were science-fiction fans who were also comics fans. And that was it.

There were a lot fewer women in the comics field in the early '60s than there are today.

Here are Maggie's answers to your questions:

I purchased comics as soon as I started getting a weekly allowance (when I was five or so). Every week, I took the dime to a nearby store and bought a comic book — which was then read to me at bedtime. When I got rheumatic fever, my parents bought the comics — and I learned to read with them. (There's nothing quite like being confined to bed for months to encourage a desire to entertain oneself by reading.)

In the meantime, my mother had become entranced by the comics done by Walt Kelly and had begun a correspondence with him. She began to make a point of buying and saving Kelly comics — some in multiples. (By the way, this was not a "collector's dream" kind of collection; all copies were heavily used in the family.) With that as a family tradition, it was natural for me to continue to read, accumulate, and save comics.

With the exception of certain moments and actors in TV shows and movies, I don't think of my entertainment attracting me "as a woman." I read a comic book for strong and inventive plotting, an appealing script, and art that supports plot and script. I can get that from the widest possible variety of comic books published today — from stories of super-heroes in skin-tight suits to tales of funny animals.]

Walter Chalkey's view on what to start the Golden Age of comics was interesting, but I would go with ending the Golden Age and starting the Silver Age at 1956, simply dividing according to which company and character is being discussed.

Placing the start of the Silver Age at 1956 is necessitated by the appearance of the Silver Age Flash. It would not make sense to talk about a Silver Age character's stories taking place before the Silver Age.

The early issues of Showcase are too significant to class with pre-Silver Age comics even though the late-'50s and very early '60s Superman stories are remarkably fine.

Archie's Fly began in 1959, and Marvel was developing the style used in its super-

REWARD OFFERED

I am interested in buying DICK TRACY original art by Chester Gould from the years 1931 through 1952.

I will pay from $1000 to $5000 EACH for daily strips and Sunday pages which feature the above villains and Dick Tracy.

Dailies featuring Tracy and a villain in a confrontation — i.e., a bloody fight, a shootout, Tracy caught in a diabolical death-trap, bullets passing through people's heads, or strips in which a villain makes his first or last appearance are my NUMBER ONE want and my offers for these dailies will be HIGH. For dailies which contain these villains but do not show Tracy, my offers will be substantially lower.

Although the villains pictured here are my main interest, I am also interested in most other villains featured in the years 1931 to 1952. If you have DICK TRACY original art, get my offer before selling! I will outpay ANYONE for these strips. CALL ME FOR MY OFFERS!!

hero titles in its monster comics. The end of the Quality Blackhawk in 1957 and its dramatic change in style and content represent the difference between the two ages quite clearly.

Also in 1956 Lev Gleason ended Crimebuster and Little Wise Guys, famous characters for the most part unknown to modern fans.

The dramatic change in horror comics after the Code happened earlier, of course, but some of the companies lingered on for a while into the Code era. By 1956 most standard Silver Age companies were functioning and lasted several years while Fiction House, EC, and others had faded away. Crime Does Not Pay started the crime cycle in 1942 in the middle of the Golden Age.

Marvel, the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, and K-Mart announced on April 3 a program that will bring Spider-Man and The New Mutants to the attention of millions.

The third child-abuse-prevention comic book, this one focusing on physical abuse, will appear in K-Mart stores nationwide during April, National Child Abuse Prevention Month. It will be free to any parent who asks for it. Spider-Man also appeared in the K-Mart Easter circular sent to millions of households across the country.

The comic book contains two stories: The Spider-Man story is by Walt Simonson, Alex Saviuk, and Keith Williams; the New Mutants story by Louise Simonson and Bret Blevins focuses on Skids.

The last two checklist cards for Marvel's 1990 annuals have shipped to warehouses. The first two cards, listing "Lifeform" and "Days of Future Past" annuals, shipped about two weeks earlier. The next two cards list annuals in Spider-Man and Avengers titles.

While many of the big hero stars ended their runs after the war, many of the most popular — the Marvel Family, Airboy, Sheena — lasted into the '50s with stories that differed little from what they had always been doing. Even some of DC's older characters like The Shining Knight and Johnny Quick, who are considered Golden Age in DC's confused continuity, lasted into the '50s (I think). There were also early '50s revivals of characters like Sub-Mariner, Blue Bolt, and Blue Beetle (again I have to say my data comes from secondary sources on some of these).

Part of the sentiment for an early end date for the Golden Age is due to price considerations on older comic books, but some of the sentiment is probably due to Stan Lee and his revival of Captain America as a hero who had vanished in 1946. This led to Marvel making a big deal about the '50s Cap being different from the early one. Marvel did some good stories based on this idea but then explained the 1946 to 1950 gap with some of the silliest retroactive continuity (I hate that term) yet.

The worst retroactive continuity ever had to be the Black-Canary-is-actually-her-daughter-in-love-with-her-father plot.

This list is continually updated and revised. Each company's titles are arranged alphabetically by sales date. The first date in parentheses is the date it is to be shipped to distributors, the second is the on-sale date: (5/22 5/29) would mean the title is to ship May 22 and go on sale May 29; (May/June) would mean that it ships in May to go on sale in June. If only one date appears — such as (5/22) or (May) — that is the shipping date. Comics shops have issues for sale earlier than the official on-sale date.

Stephen Hunt presents A Selection of High Grade Golden Age Books

Welcome to my first ad in CBG! All of the books represented below are of the highest quality and are seldom offered for sale. Virtually all are Church (Mile High), Denver or San Francisco copies.

These books are not for everyone but are aimed primarily at the comic book connoisseur. All are breathtakingly beautiful and represent the very finest Golden Age books available to collectors and investors.

Let me add that if you have high quality Golden Age books for sale please think of me. I am especially interested in Disney, Little Lulu, and Key #1 Funny Animal books. So give me a call and let's chat.

Action #68 (Mint) Church copy $900.00
 Beautiful Mile High with arrival dates. January, 1944 issue with a "whale" of a cover.

Adventure #103 (Mint) Church copy $3,000.00
 1st Superboy in Adventure Comics and 1st small logo for this historic title. An absolute gem Church copy with rich intense colors. Gorgeous! This book will, make someone very happy.

America's Greatest #8 (Mint) Church copy $700.00
 A beautiful 100 pages and the last and most difficult to obtain in this run. Absolutely perfect!

Air Fighters V1 #2 (Mint) Pa. copy $1,700.00
 Classic Biro cover art and great origin story of Airboy highlight this beautiful Pennsylvania copy. This whole run possesses some great art and is very undervalued.

Archie #1 (NM +) Denver copy $4,000.00
 How often do you see this trend-setting book for sale? This is the Denver copy and ever so beautiful. Next to the Church copy it is probably the nicest in existence.

Batman #17 (Mint) San Francisco copy $1,600.00
 One hesitates to use the word "perfect" to describe any book but this gem comes as close as humanly possible. Simply put, it is a magnificent San Francisco copy with a great war cover. Snow white pages. An awesome book. Put this book away and watch it escalate in value!

Detective #114 (Mint) Church copy $1,600.00
 A fabulous jet black Joker cover highlights this incredibly perfect Church copy. My heart skipped a beat when I saw this book! 1st small logo for this landmark title. Great investment for the true mint maniac!

Ellery Queen #1 (Mint) Church copy $600.00
 This is the May, 1949 issue with a fabulous Kamen cover. Strikingly beautiful. Do I really want to sell this book?

Four Color #1 - First Series $1,800.00
 Not a Church copy, just a Very Fine to Near Mint copy of this most elusive book. In addition to being a key #1, it is also a Dick Tracy book, need we say more. Let's call it VF-NM to be safe. A #1 book in a very historically significant run, it is also a Dick Tracy book. Need we say more?

Murder Incorporated #1 (NM +) Church copy $420.00
 A great Fox Creme book with a high impact cover. Beautiful!

Rulah #17 (1) (Mint) Church copy $735.00
 Another gorgeous Church copy with fabulous good girl art. Stunning book!

Sensation #1 $12,000.00
 This is a book I hesitate to sell, so do me a favor and don't buy it. Very few DC #1 Church copies are ever offered for sale. This is the first Wonder Woman cover, and the continuation of her origin from All-Star #8. It is a beautiful Mile High with an unbelievable glossy cover and pure white pages. A most historic book that will surely increase in value.

Single Series - Tarzan (Mint) Church copy $2,500.00
 By far the most beautiful Tarzan cover. When you see this book you will understand why Church copies command the prices they do. Beautiful Hal Foster art. Strictly for the condition conscious collector.

Tomahawk #1 (Mint) Church copy $1,400.00
 Put on your sunglasses for this one. The blues and oranges on this cover will blind you. Just a great Church copy. The rest of the run isn't very strong but this #1 is a gem.

Sheena #1 Church copy (Mint) $3,000.00
 The Church copy of this book is close to perfect. Beautiful Zolne Rowich cover. Fiction House books are still undervalued. Put this one away. A key #1.

TERMS:

1. I pay postage & insurance.
 2. Cashiers checks - books shipped immediately.
 3. Personal checks - must clear.

A Message to the Comics Industry on our 10th Anniversary...

We're Milton Griep and John Davis, the owners of Capital City Distribution, Inc.

We're talking to you on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the founding of Capital City.

When we formed Capital City Distribution in 1980, we had some ideas about how a distribution company ought to be run:

- ▶ We wanted to have a wide product line, because we liked variety.
- ▶ We thought it was a good idea to have a fair deal for each and every retailer, without playing favorites.
- ▶ We didn't want to retail.
- ▶ We saw distribution as serving both retailers and publishers, and we decided then that we didn't want to cut corners on our service.
- ▶ We figured the easiest way to fix a problem was to put it right.
- ▶ We wanted to give our employees a good place to work, and a fair wage.

Over the last 10 years, we've gotten a little fancier about the way we do these things, but the basic principles are the same. So join us, the owners,

the hundreds of employees that make CCD run,
the hundreds of suppliers,
the thousands of retailers, and the communities in which we live and do business in celebrating the continuity of our 10 years of service in 1990.

SILVER & GOLD

The next two pages complete our 5-page Silver & Gold ad. For the first three pages, see last week's CBG. Something for everyone! We don't know about you folks but we're getting tired of seeing CBG ads for Silver & Golden Age comics with nothing priced under a thousand bucks each!! What ever happened to inexpensive old comics? We hope this ad will strike a blow for affordability in comic collecting!

TERMS

Minimum order: $10.00. Orders over $100 are postpaid. Under $100, add $3.00 USA; $8.00 Canada; $10.00 other foreign. Satisfaction guaranteed. Any comic may be returned for a full refund if returned within 7 days and in the same condition as received. Grading is strict. Master Card, Visa and American Express orders cheerfully accepted. We must have your credit card billing address in addition to your shipping address, if they differ.

DISCOUNTS

FILLED orders are subject to the following discounts: If your total FILLED order adds up to $100, you may deduct 10% off your order total. Over $200, deduct 15%; over $300, deduct 20%; over $500, deduct 25% and over $1000, deduct 30%. NOTE: For purposes of calculating discounts, no ONE comic may add up to HALF or more of your total order.

Exceptions: Maximum discount is 10% for DCs and Marvels (including Timely and Atlas). These may be included in your total for discount calculation, but the discount obtained only applies to the non-DC and non-Marvel product. Note that the discount is determined by how much of your order we FILL. We recommend providing alternate choices whenever possible to maximize your discount!

PHONE ORDERS

Our recent two-page ad, spotlighting Silver & Gold DC's, did really well! We only had two problems. Number one, our phone staff got swamped with calls and this led to some confusion over the availability of certain comics. We've corrected this problem by establishing a completely separate phone number for NEC's Silver & Gold ads. Call (800) 584-7527 and ask for Billy Dee. Billy's our Silver & Gold Manager. Billy's got 25+ years experience collecting old comic books and he's an "expert" on Silver & Golden Age comics. Our second problem had to do with "discontinued" people who called to reserve books and never followed through with orders. A few called back to cancel (which caused us problems too) but most never even bothered to contact us. As you can imagine, this contributed to the confusion mentioned above. Not only was our efficiency seriously affected, but more importantly, our paying customers were greatly inconvenienced. To correct this problem, we're going to limit phone orders to credit card orders ONLY. Exception: we will accept phone reservations, followed by an order in the mail, from people with whom we've already done satisfactory business. Otherwise, while we welcome phone calls asking for information about our advertised comics and inquiring generally about their availability, we will not be able to reserve comics for people we haven't done business with before, unless they use a credit card.

Well, I didn't really feel like getting out of bed this morning in the first place. I just feel, I don't know, well, tired, I guess. No pep, I guess. Well, I burned the muffins right off the bat, as you know, so not only did I have to make more muffins, but I had to go all through the house and open all the windows to let the smoke out. Well, then I had to get Tommy out of bed, which is, like, living hell, and he wouldn't eat his muffins. Well, then it was time for Tommy's bath, so I had to run his bath water and go back through the house and close all the windows so he wouldn't catch his death of cold. Well, while I was doing that, the bathtub overflowed, so I had to clean that up before I could give Tommy his bath and by the time I got that cleaned up, the bath water had become cold, so I had to let that water out and run some more water. But by the time, we were already running late, so I just had to take T bid if that gossipy old Helen Crump should see him in st flat tire, can you believe it, and me in that foreign car with

He thinks—
"GEEZ LOUISE! IF SHE DOESN'T STOP THAT WHINING, I WILL KILL MYSELF AND THE CHILDREN!"

The world is full of TIRED WOMEN who needn't be!

WEAK COFFEE MAY BE THE CAUSE! Weak coffee does more than give one that "run down" feeling. It can actually strain marital relations and cause irreversible insanity! That's why so many have switched to high-n-mighty GREEN-GREY SPONGE-SUIT SUSHI TURTLES coffee. This delicious product is composed of equal parts of skillfully ground soluble coffee and added rocket fuel to give you what we call "ZING"! It's the extra "ZING" that is the difference between a good cup of coffee, or a rush that would knock a rhino on his butt.

The coffee with "ZING"!

As seen in GREEN-GREY SPONGE-SUIT SUSHI TURTLES comics.

SHAZAM! Yes, this superb graphic blockbuster is still available. Since publication last November, this is what the press had to say:

'The format is like a forty pound bowling ball with a built in strobe light - spectacular'
Midwest Book Review

'The Monster Society of Evil is the very best...simply put, this is one of the most significant collections of the past 30 years'
Amazing Heroes

'The Monster Society of Evil...deserves to be under glass. It is an epiphany for comic book aficionados, nothing less than a milestone'
New York Post

'It's beautiful'
Comic Buyers Guide

The Monster Society of Evil - all 25 chapters of the Golden Age classic - full colour throughout 240 pages including the original covers - large format 10 1/2 X 14" - solid binding - gold embossed slipcase - numbered limited edition of 3000.

With the death of C.C. Beck, the original artist, this is a piece of Americana that no collector should be without. Order today!

News

Overstreet's 20th Comic Book Price Guide ships; Overstreet does signing. Amy Grant sues Marvel. Eisner Awards will send replacement ballot. Planet of the Apes #1 sells out for publisher. Martin Nodell, Sheldon Moldoff are Kansas City con guests. Mark Schultz does signing. Publishers' best sellers for March are listed. Sun Con leads TMNT petition drive. 1, et al.

Archie Comics' latest title is Riverdale High — our preview this week. See Page 3.

June breaks records for new comics

Capital City Distribution's monthly Orderpak for June listed 1753 items for retailers to choose from, setting a new record. The page count, 136 pages, was the biggest ever for Capital City.

Also setting new size records were two other Capital City publications, Game Buyer's Monthly and Internal Correspondence.

However, Capital City did exclude one important item: Dark Horse's Give Me Liberty, written by Frank Miller and drawn by Dave Gibbons.

Capital City Promotions Director Marty Stever said, "It was a gigantic month, and we were behind schedule the entire time we were working on the Orderpak. When we put the publication to bed, we thought we had done a really good job of maintaining quality while making a huge increase in the quantity of items, graphics, and pages we were running."

"Then, just a day after the Orderpak was in retailers' hands, we got a call from an observant customer who noticed we had missed Give Me Liberty. I could have cried. It's only one of the most important books that Dark Horse has ever done, a sure mega-hit, and we missed it.

"All Capital City accounts should rest assured: We will solicit for Give Me Liberty in the July Orderpak and Capital City will be shipping it on time! I apologize for any inconvenience this might have caused retailers or Dark Horse Comics. The mistake was the result of being completely snowed under with work for a week, then, at around 1 a.m., trying to do the complex job of checking Orderpak contents. Under normal circumstances a mistake like this wouldn't happen, but 1753 items in an Orderpak isn't a normal circumstance — yet!"

The previous record for most items listed in a single Orderpak was 1658 set in July of last year. That number had been driven by Batman licensed merchandise. The new record is the result of growth in all areas: comics, games, trading cards, and novelties.

Capital City Distribution also reported that this month's Internal Correspondence was a record-setting 48 pages. This particular issue of Internal Correspondence included a report from the DC Distributor Sales Meeting, a report from the GAMA show, several articles on the Capital City Sales Conference, as well as the normal market reports and Capital City news. Capital City's Game Buyer's Monthly was also of record length.

'Spidey' #1 has 4 versions

Marvel said it wants to "make sure everyone's clear" on what the company will do with the first issue of Todd McFarlane's Spider-Man.

There will be four versions: the newsstand edition, the direct-only edition (with silver ink on the cover), and two pre-bagged collectors' editions.

Marvel told retailers, "We will produce 125,000 of the regular edition and 125,000 of the silver-ink edition and place them in plastic bags with a 'Collectors' Item First Issue' logo on the bag." Unbagged newsstand and direct editions will be $1.75 per copy. Bagged silver editions will be $2, with the price on the bag, although the comics inside will still carry the $1.75 price. Bagged newsstand editions will be $1.75.

All are scheduled to ship June 19.

OUR AUCTIONS ARE FUN AND BIDDING IS EASY

Read about the hundreds of rare comics and related collectibles in our current catalog at your leisure. Every lot is photographed, and each is graded and described in such complete detail that even major comic companies save our catalog and use them as reference works. Then, from the comfort of your own home or office, bid whatever you like by mail - or phone us with your bids. After the auction closes, winning bidders are sent invoices which clearly detail their winnings. We ship all material promptly, and everything is very carefully wrapped and protected by our dedicated staff. We have been serving collectors since 1964, and this is our 29th deluxe, photo-illustrated catalog issued since 1982. Our grading is very strict, and we count among our valued customers not only professional comic book writers, artists and editors, but also many of the world's foremost Golden Age Dealers. For the highest standards in the rare comic book field, turn to Wooley's - where collectors and professionals alike go to buy.

FOR YOUR REFERENCE:

Many of our authors and advertisers use terms common in the field of comics collecting which may not be known to a general audience. For everyone's convenience, we list some of the most common terms:

Big Little Book/BLB Small, square book with cardboard covers, also published under such names as Better Little Book. The time of widest circulation was the '30s and '40s.

CBG Comics Buyer's Guide.

cel Original art for an animated cartoon, it is a painting done directly on celluloid (hence the name).

Comics Code The rules of the Comics Magazine Association of America, formed in 1954 to censor comics.

direct distribution/sales System of non-returnable publication distribution in which comics, specialty, and similar shops receive items to sell without going through the returnable newsstand distribution system.

Golden Age Indicates the first era of comic-book production — which occurred in the '30s and '40s.

grading Determining condition, usually using Overstreet's Guide, when comics are involved.

OBO Or best offer.

original/s Original art, as created by the artist, for comic strips, printed illustrations, etc.

Overstreet/Overstreet prices/Overstreet Guide All refer to Robert M. Overstreet's annual The Comic Book Price Guide and the prices therein. "20% off Overstreet" refers to an item's costing 20% less than its Guide-listed value.

pulp/s Pulp-paper-printed adventure fiction magazines, mostly those printed during the '20s, '30s, and '40s.

SAE/SASE/sae/sase Self-Addressed Envelope, Self-Addressed, Stamped Envelope. Used in ads ("Send SASE."): include an envelope addressed to yourself and with sufficient postage to insure delivery.

Seduction of the Innocent Published in 1954, this would-be expose (by Fredric Wertham) of comic books helped to focus national attention on sex and violence in pre-Code comics and led to comics censorship.

Silver Age Indicates a period of comic-book production of slightly less (nostalgic?) luster than the Golden Age. Usually considered to have begun with the first revival of a '40s super-hero: the Flash revival, in Showcase #4 (Sept.-Oct. 1956).

underground/s/underground comix Comic books done outside the traditional marketing and distribution systems. Originally an offshoot of "hippie" and similar movements of the '60s, replete with drug and sex references. Currently, fewer are devoted to such topics.

Comics Exchange

Read this and find out how we bring buyers and sellers together.

You no longer have to spend great amounts of your time and money looking for or selling your comics. All you have to do now is send a list of the comics that you are buying or selling to the Comics Exchange. They will do the work for you. Include in that list the publisher, full name, volume number, issue number, and your price. They will immediately begin matching your list against other buyer's and seller's list, and they will not charge a fee until they find what you are looking for. So let them do the work for you by sending your list to:

Check your LABEL

Consult the label on the cover of this issue of CBG. The month and year your subscription ends can be found on the second line of the label. These are followed by the actual week of expiration. (Weeks 1-5 come in January, weeks 6-9 come in February, etc.)

A subscription label reading "DEC 90/49" means that the subscription will expire with the issue dated Dec. 7, 1990. Note: The "BG" at the start of the line has nothing to do with the expiration date.

If the month on the label is approaching, it's time to renew!

- Do not FAX your Comics Trader ads. The ad copy becomes distorted and appears blotchy when printed.
- Use clean white paper, clean typewriter keys and a dark ribbon.
- Include ordering information, postage rates, name, address and telephone numbers. This leaves no questions unanswered and avoids delay.
- NEW ADVERTISERS: Must supply CBG with your current street address and phone number to avoid delay. If you choose not to list your phone number in your ad, you must provide CBG with your current phone number.

You may buy as many Trader ads as you wish at $26 each. They are run as you send them, reduced to fit into Trader units. (Recommended size for originals is 8x10"). New advertisers: Please supply CBG with your current street address and phone number to avoid delay.
